William Wall is in my view the best Irish writer I have read in quite a while and that's saying something. The words are so poetic even though the things he's writing about are horrible and frightening. The ending is shocking and surprising and there's a twist that really changes everything almost in the last page.

Alice Falling By WILLIAM WALL W. W. Norton & Company. Read the Review. A grey stain on the ceiling. A fly flits on it. The stain is a map of Ireland. Almost exact. There used to be an ancient truncated map of the world hanging behind the master's desk at school, China and Siberia missing at one side where a fire had clawed it. Centuries ago, it seemed.
