In selecting environmental anxiety as the theme of his study of conservation in South Asia and Australasia, James Beattie explores terrain first mapped by Richard H. Grove in Green Imperialism: Colonial Expansion, Tropical Island Edens and the Origins of Environmentalism, 1660-1860 (1995).

Review: Empire and Environmental Anxiety | Australian ...

James Beattie's Empire and Environmental Anxiety is an ambitious book. It surveys the changing perceptions of British colonials, mostly (white) settlers, government officials and scientists, but also artists. Encountering colonial environments generated anxious responses among these people that both reflected environmental critiques of colonial impacts and spurred the exertion of imperial
