Philip Dow, author of the new book from IVP academic, Virtuous Minds: Intellectual Character Formation, argues that. Our intellectual character influences our lives just as moral character does, and with at least as much force. The only difference is that intellectual character is concerned not with our actions as much as the thinking habits

Virtuous Minds Intellectual Character Development For

In Intellectual Development: Intellectual Character Development, Philip Dow presents a case for the recovery of intellectual character. Virtue is not about doing the right things, but about becoming the right kind of person. The formation of intellectual character produces a way of life that demonstrates love for both God and neighbor.

Virtuous Minds Intellectual Character Development by

Virtuous Minds makes the case for intellectual character development through seven intellectual virtues. As the book description on the back cover states, "virtue is not just about doing the right things, it is about becoming the right kind of person." Dow believes that this kind of education of persons can happen in churches, homes, and schools, but as an educator he has written this
